Emeryville City Block Redevelopment Lowney Associates provided environmental services for the redevelopment of a 4.3-acre city block in Emeryville, California. The planned development will consist of 105 townhouses and approximately 30,000 square feet of retail space. Environmental issues Lowney Associates faced at the site included the residual contamination associated with past industrial activities. We evaluated the extent of contamination and the risks posed to human health. Through careful scientific analyses, Lowney Associates prepared a site development strategy to minimize delays in construction as a result of the residual contaminants present. The developer is Park Emery Associates, LLP.
